

Deduction I: Given a Bloom filter, if m and n are fixed, when k changes, different value of k results in different information entropy. Larger information entropy means smaller false positive rate.